'Early semester' system suggested

By LARRY SONIS
Staff Reporter

Interest is being expressed in an "early semester" system with the first term of the school year ending before Christmas.

The proposal was discussed briefly at a recent meeting of the Administrative Cabinet after Mike Farrell, Huntington senior and student body president, asked that it be considered. Farrell said that many students are interested in the idea.

At the suggestion of President Stewart H. Smith, Farrell said he would contact Luther Bledsoe, registrar, for further information.

Paul Matheny, Charleston senior and vice president of the student body, expressed strong support of the early semester plan. Noting that he had done research on the subject when in the Student Senate, Matheny outlined his views.

"Ending the semester before Christmas would eliminate the long lag during which students wait to complete assignments. This would let them concentrate on schooling and get everything done without a lengthy interruption," he said.

Matheny said the early semester schedule would help make Marshall a leading school. "We could take the initiative in this field and increase our status in both the state and the total college community," he said.

He said the present system is based on rural society and emphasized the long summer break needed by some students to work on crops. "We need an updated system to fit the modern campus environment," he added.

Matheny stressed, however, that the regular school year should not include a substantial part of the summer. He favored starting fall classes earlier but leaving summer school attendance up to the students.

Asked if the early semester program was a goal of the present student government administration, Matheny replied, "We promised that we would work for programs even if they took more time than our own term of office. On this premise, we are working for the early semester system."

He continued, "We want to be sure that we have a better system for future students than we had when we came."

The nearest possible date for adoption of the plan is the 1969-70 school year, Farrell said.

Army's Band here Sunday

A former Marshall University student will appear with the Soldiers' Chorus when the U. S. Army Field Band performs at 3 p.m. Sunday at Memorial Field House.

Spec. 5 David A. King left Marshall early in 1963 to enlist in the Army. Prior to enlistment, King appeared in several University and civic theatrical productions, including "Honey in the Rock." He also performed with the American Light Opera Company, the Actor's Company and the Washington Civic Symphony in Washington, D. C.

The chorus, composed of 22 vocalists under the direction of Sgt. Maj. Eugene Coughlin, has performed with the Army Field Band in four Presidential Inaugural Parades, at London's Royal Festival Hall, Edinburgh Music Festival, and the Luxemburg Gardens in Paris, as well as yearly performances to more than two million people around the world.

Lt. Col. Wilmont N. Trumbull, the band's commanding officer and conductor, is the third conductor in the band's 20-year history.

Capt. James B. Carroll of the Military Science Department, which is sponsoring the band's appearance, said that there will be no admission charge.

Cabinets, Senate, chairmen to meet Wednesday night

A dinner meeting for Student Senate, Student Cabinet, Administrative Cabinet, chairman of the University Council and chairman of the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee will be at 5:30 p.m. next Wednesday in the Dining Hall basement, according to President Stewart H. Smith.

Dr. Smith said the meeting will be a "get acquainted" session and that Senate members will have an opportunity to present their ideas and recommendations to the administration.

In a letter to Mike Farrell, student body president and Huntington senior, he said the dinner meeting will establish "better communications between students and administration."

Military notes

THE U. S. ARMY FIELD BAND and the Soldiers' Chorus will perform Sunday at Memorial Field House. The 3 p.m. concert is sponsored by the Military Science Department. There will be no admission charge.

I love to perform for students, Mantovani says of concert here

A near-capacity audience heard international composer and conductor Mantovani and his orchestra present a light, semi-classical concert, Monday night at the Keith Albee Theatre.

The two-hour program, ranging from Tchaikovsky medleys to Tijuana Brass songs, was well received by Marshall students at the first student artist series and by other area residents as part of the Greater Huntington Arts Festival, which is being held this week.

"You're going to get your money's worth," Mantovani, a witty Englishman reminded his audience. And his promise was kept, for encores, including his theme song, "Charmaine," were followed by a standing ovation.

The 45-piece orchestra featured a dominating string sound which has become the Mantovani label. However, he also used special instruments, frequently including the guitar and the accordion.

Show music on the program included "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Some Enchanted Evening" from South Pacific, and standards, "Ebb Tide" and "Strangers in the Night." Mantovani's own composition "Pizza Pie" was performed.

Mantovani was born in Venice, Italy and lives in Bournemouth, England. He is now on an annual three-month tour of the U. S. which traditionally includes many universities.

"I love to perform for university students," he said after the program. "You seem to enjoy us so much." He also recalled visiting Huntington about 20 years ago.

Recently Mantovani record sales reached five million. He also became the first conductor to have a major television series built around him for world-wide distribution.

He has also become the first conductor to be commanded by Queen Elizabeth to appear before her at the Royal Variety Show.

Guests of Greater Huntington Arts Festival to tour campus

Out of town guests of the Greater Huntington Arts Festival will tour the campus at 3 p.m. today, according to Mrs. Mildred Leuterman, festival chairman.

President Stewart H. Smith will host the tour, taking in as special points of interest the Geology Museum, the Campus Christian Center, and Music Hall.

A reception and tea for the guests will be given by the Marshall University Faculty Wives in the Faculty Lounge at 4:30 p.m.

Guests will be honored at the Marshall Community Symphony concert at 8:30 p.m. at the Keith-Albee Theatre.

The symphony, under the direction of Alfred Lanegger, associate professor of music, will present this program in connection with the festival for the celebration of West Virginia Night.

Jane Hobson, mezzo-soprano, and special guest George Riabikoff, concert pianist, will be featured.

Symphony music set for tonight

The Marshall Community Symphony, under the direction of Alfred Lanegger, associate professor of music, will present a concert at 8:30 p.m. today at the Keith Albee Theatre.

Featured will be Jane Hobson, mezzo-soprano, and noted pianist George Riabikoff.

Tickets are available at the main office of the Music Department and at the Office of Development and Alumni Affairs, at a special student price of $2.

The concert is being presented in connection with the Greater Huntington Arts Festival in celebration of West Virginia Night.

Specially invited guests will be presented at the concert, according to Mrs. Mildred Leuterman, festival chairman.

The opening selections will be the "Academic Festival" overture by Johannes Brahms and "Music from Faust" by Charles Gounod.

Miss Hobson will sing three arias: "Il est Doux, Il est Bon" from Herodiade by Jules Massenet; "Mon coeur s'ouvre a ta voix" from Samson and Delilah by Camille Saint-Saens, and "Seguidilla" from Carmen by George Bizet.

Mr. Riabikoff will play Edvard Grieg's "Concerto in A Minor, Opus 16" and "Allegro Molto Moderato," "Adagio," and "Allegro Moderato Molto e Marcato."

Teaching? It's time to apply

Final date of application for student teaching second semester is Oct. 31, according to Dr. Lawrence H. Nuzum, professor of education and director of student teaching.

Before applying, the student must have completed 75 per cent of the required work in his teaching field, have 90 hours credit, have satisfactorily completed the English Qualifying Examination, and have a 2.0 over-all quality point average.

According to Dr. Nuzum, there will be two orientation seminars for student teachers prior to second semester. Seminars will be Nov. 15 and 30 at 4 p.m. in Science Hall Auditorium. Students planning on student teaching must attend both seminars.

HOMECOMING TICKETS

Tickets for the Nov. 3 concert at the Keith Albee Theatre will be on sale Monday for $4 per couple. Tickets for the Homecoming dance at the Field House Nov. 4 will be $3 per couple.

Reapportionment is long overdue

It has been apparent for some time that the apportionment system in the Student Senate needs revision. With the recent formation of a Senate committee to study representation, hope can be expressed that a new system is imminent.

In one of the first meetings of the committee, Nick McGrath, chairman and Huntington senior, said the revision was needed for the new ideas that would be brought to the student government by more representatives.

He admitted that there is the possibility of some of the representatives being "deadwood" Senators, but said that proportionately there will probably be some good workers among those elected.

In the committee discussions, the "club system" of apportionment has been the most frequently discussed as the means to increase representation. Basically, this means that students would vote for the same number of senators as they have in the past, with another representative being elected from a club of which they are a member.

As McGrath pointed out, this type of representation has its obvious drawbacks.

Many students do not belong to organizations that would elect senators. Others are members of several clubs. Would not this type of representation be extremely disproportionate?

McGrath and his committee certainly have their work cut out for them. The difficulties in finding a new type of representation are many. But obviously, the need is great since the present system has proven to be unoperational in that representation is disproportionate.

It will take the committee some time to arrive at a feasible method; that is if they want to have a good senate.

It is our hope that the final method proposed is the result of intensive study, and that it is one which will make the Student Senate truly representative of the student body.

Chief Justice staff deserves congratulations for a good job

The current issue of the Chief Justice, Marshall's yearbook, is now being distributed to students on campus. From all indications, this year's book is one of the best in the history of the University.

Al Butto, Weirton senior and editor of the Chief Justice, and his entire staff deserve all the credit for a job well done.

Under the guidance of Jim Martin, director of information and publications, the Chief Justice staff produced an attractive as well as imaginative year book, one that Marshall students can be proud of for years to come.

From the staff of The Parthenon, "congratulations for a superb publication."

The annual Leadership Seminar, originally scheduled for Oct. 27-29, has been postponed until Nov. 10-12, according to Jack Kessick, Huntington senior and commissioner of student government affairs.

Because of "insufficient facilities," the site of the conference also has been changed, Kessick said. The seminar will be held at Cedar Lakes, near Ripley, instead of the Gilmer County Recreational Center at Glenville.

The seminar formerly has been conducted in the spring, but was cancelled last spring due to a conflict with Greek Week.

Redskins triumphant hunters, 48-6

By T. M. MURDOCK
Sports Co-editor
The Miami Redskins went bison-hunting Saturday as they defeated the Thundering Herd 48-6.

The Redskins showed a decisive advantage in rushing as they rolled up a total of 357 yards to MU's minus 36 yards.

"They just out-powered us on the ground," said MU Coach Charlie Snyder. "They don't have the passing game that other MAC teams have, but they do have rushing power."

However, the Herd did have the lead in the game for a few minutes. Defensive back George Riggs intercepted a pass and returned it 92 yards for MU's lone score. The extra point try was blocked.

As for the reason behind the run-away victory, Coach Snyder said:

"We just played our worst game of the season. We just got behind and sometimes when that happens everything goes wrong all at once."

Miami, led by a fleet of speedy backs, showed plenty of power.

"I think," said Coach Snyder, "that they could win the conference if they continue to play like they did against us."

"Miami has a good defensive team," said Coach Snyder. "They have to have to hold a team to minus yardage."

The Redskins defense overpowered the MU offense and held Herd tailback Charlie Jones to only seven yards. Claude Smith, Herd fullback, was MU's leading rusher with 15 yards in seven tries.

The victory evened Miami's Mid-American Conference record at 2-2 and 3-2 overall. MU dropped to 0-3 in the conference and is now 0-5 in all games.

The Herd goes to The University of Louisville Saturday and then to the University of Western Michigan the following Saturday before returning home Nov. 4 for Homecoming against MAC foe Bowling Green University.

Riggs, Wallace are chosen Herd's players of the week

George Riggs, Toronto, Ohio, sophomore, was named Back of the Week and Bruce Wallace, Middleport, Ohio, junior, was named Lineman of the Week in Saturday's 48-6 loss to Miami University.

Selection was sponsored by the Robe, men's leadership honorary. Riggs, a safety, accounted for the Herd's only score Saturday when he returned a kickoff 92 yards. He was also chosen Back of the Week against Xavier.

His punt returning against Xavier and Miami is the big factor that has earned him Back-of-the-Week honors for the past two weeks.

Wallace's title was also for the second time, the first coming in the 14-7 loss to Toledo. He was also named MAC Lineman of the Week after the Toledo game.

Miami's offense continually ran to the other side in an attempt to avoid Wallace, Bob Campbell, sports information director, said.

OPEN RECREATION CUT

Students may not use Gullickson Hall gymnasium for open recreation Saturday mornings during basketball season, according to Mike Allen, assistant director of intramural sports. The gymnasium will be available for open recreation from 1-4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

HOCKEY SQUAD READY

The women's hockey squad begins its intercollegiate competition this month when its travels to Marietta College Oct. 28.

Lone MU scorer lauds blockers and coaches

"I backed up to the eight and caught the ball. Then I saw all these red shirts coming at me! So I thought I had better get out of there!"

That's how George Riggs, Toronto, Ohio, sophomore, described what he felt as he started on a 92-yard punt return that ended as Marshall's only touchdown in Saturday's loss to Miami.

The long run came in the first quarter and gave the Thundering Herd a short-lived 6-0 advantage.

Riggs said that playing defense and returning this punt were his biggest thrills at MU.

"Blocks are what set it up for me," said Riggs. "I don't care if it's in pro-football, in college or in high school, you have to have blocking to get loose on a long runback."

Riggs, a six-foot, 180-pound sophomore, played football at Jefferson Union High School. The defensive back is majoring in physical education and is looking forward to a coaching career.

Last week Riggs won MU "Back of the Week" honors for his outstanding play against Xavier.

"We have a good over-all defense. The main thing about our defense is pride. You have to have pride," Riggs said.

He also praised MU's coaching staff.

"They can show us, but they can't do it for us," he said. "We are well-coached at our positions."

The Virginia Tech varsity finished with 16 points and Marshall totaled 45. (Low score wins in cross country.)

The Tech freshman nipped the Herd frosh 27-28.

In the varsity competition Tech took the first four places with Greg Connelly, Baltimore, Md., sophomore, having the best time for the Herd and capturing fifth place. DeHart of Virginia Tech had the fastest time with a 26:58.6 clocking. Connelly's time was 28:34.

The Herd freshmen's best time was turned in by Stan Backus with a time of 21:39 which earned second place. The winning time was turned in by Bruce Smith of Tech with a clocking of 21:27.5.

The next meet will be Saturday at Athens, Ohio, against Ohio University and the University of Cincinnati.

Broncos now 3-0; retain MAC lead

Western Michigan University strengthened its first-place position in the Mid-American Conference with a 16-7 victory over Kent State Saturday. The Broncos are now 3-0 in the conference.

Tied for second place with 2-1 records are Toledo, Miami, and Ohio University. Bowling Green is 0-2.

Frosh lose 21-6

Marshall's freshman football team lost its opening game of the season 21-6 to Greenbrier Military School at Lewisburg on Monday.

Team loses top golfer

Marshall's golf team will be minus its top regular this year due to a misunderstanding about his scholarship.

David Carter, Barboursville senior, said, "I was informed as late as last summer that I would have a scholarship even though I was married and working. I registered and went to pick up my books and found that I was not on scholarship."

Cagers begin season drills

The Thundering Herd basketball team, which posted a 20-8 season record last year, held its first meeting of the season Monday.

Head Coach Ellis Johnson held a short conference with his players before going on the practice floor in the Gullickson Hall Gymnasium.

"We'll work out at Gullickson Hall and the Field House," Coach Johnson said. "We plan to have a rotating schedule so that whenever the varsity is at Gullickson the freshmen will be at the Field House and visa versa."

Practice will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. daily for the first month of the pre-season.

This year's Thundering Herd captain has not been decided upon.

"As of yet we have not made a selection," said Coach Johnson. "I'm not sure of the exact date that we will choose him."

Last year's captain was Bob Redd, Louisville, Ky., senior. Redd, a forward, was elected to all Mid-American Conference first team.

Golf Coach Roy V. "Buddy" Graham Jr. said he didn't have time to fully explain the situation to Carter. Under MAC rules, a player cannot earn more than the amount of the full scholarship and still keep his grant-in-aid, according to Graham.

"I will red-shirt myself until next year, then perhaps I will play if the situation has progressed," Carter said. He is now paying his own way through school.

Carter is a real fine boy," said Graham. "I sure hate to lose him."

"The MAC will be real tough this year," commented Coach Graham. He said that Marshall's golf team will be young and inexperienced this season and that he is expecting at least eight new starters to try out this year.

Barney Thompson, Barboursville sophomore and former state amateur champion, has left Marshall and is now attending West Virginia State College because he could not arrange a suitable schedule here.

"We didn't sign any boys to grant-in-aids this season because we couldn't find anyone we thought could help us," Coach Graham said.

Rifle team raises sights

The ROTC rifle team is looking forward to bettering last year's 9-3 record.

The team is coached by Capt. Charles W. Jarvis, assistant professor of military science, and Sgt. Walter Russell, instructor of military science. This team and the women's rifle team compose the Rifle Club.

The club's president is Felix DanDois, a senior and returning letterman from St Albans. Other returning lettermen are Keith Wellman and George Crickard, Huntington sophomores; Arley Abraham, Williamson junior, and James Harler, Moundsville sophomore. They are the first to receive a varsity letter at Marshall as riflemen.

Although the team was only initiated as a varsity sport last year, it finished ninth among 91 competitive teams in the First Army Division, in which ROTC rifle teams of colleges east of the Mississippi competed. West Virginia University placed first.

Abraham, vice president of the rifle club, said he was expecting the team to be competing with WVU for first place this season.

The first match is Saturday against Pennsylvania Military College. The season runs through April 15.

There are two "shoulder to shoulder" matches scheduled this season. The first is in November against Xavier University and the second is against WVU in March. The rest are "postal" matches.

The Military Science Department supplies all the weapons and equipment, as well as the coaches. Abraham said he thought that the athletic department also should give some support.

If you join the United States Air Force you'll become an expert fast.

The Air Force is like that. They hand you a lot of responsibility fast. Through Officer Training School you get a chance to specialize where you want...in the forefront of modern science and technology.

Suppose, for example, you wanted to become a pilot and serve as aircraft commander on airplane crews. You'd plan missions and insure that the aircraft is pre-flight, inspected, loaded and equipped for the assigned mission. You'll be trained to fly exciting aircraft.

Just examples. There are so many more.

Wouldn't it be pretty nice to enjoy officers' pay and privileges? And serve your country, as well? Also, you get retirement benefits, 30 days' paid vacation, medical and dental care.

B. Sc. Very impressive letters. Now, do something with them.

Donors club is established

The Marshall University Alumni Association has established a new club for donors to the Alumni Fund, according to Harry M. Sands, director of development and alumni affairs.

The Towers Club, which uses the towers of Old Main as its symbol, is now open to contributors of $100 or more, Mr. Sands said.

"Alumni are giving much more thoughtful amounts to the Alumni Fund each year. This has made more appropriate recognition necessary," he said.

There are three levels of membership in the club. Donors of $100-$199 will be known as Towers Club members. Those who contribute $200-$299 receive the title of associate justice, and those giving $300 or more will be called chief justices.

Each contributor will receive a walnut plaque with the towers of Old Main pictured in ceramic.

"We hope that through this club this year we will raise 10% of our total annual giving goal of $30,000," Mr. Sands said.

The club now has several members though they have not yet been notified, he added.

THERE ARE NO BAD TEACHERS; THERE ARE ONLY BAD STUDENTS

The academic year has only just begun and already one thing is clear: you're not ready for college.

What, then, should you do? Should you throw up your hands and quit? I say no! I say you must attack, grapple, cope! I say America did not become the world's leader in motel construction and kidney transplants by running away from a fight!

To the question then: You say you're not ready for college. You're too green, too naive. You lack maturity.

Okay, the answer is simple: get mature. How? Well sir, to achieve maturity you need two things:

- a probing mind;
- a vest.

A probing mind will be quickly yours if you'll remember that education consists not of answers but of questions. Blindly accepting information and dumbly memorizing data is high school stuff. In college you don't just accept. You dispute, you push, you pry, you challenge. If, for instance, your physics prof says, "E equals mc squared," don't just write it down. Say to the prof, "Why?"

This will show him two things:

- Your mind is a keen, thrusting instrument.
- You are in the wrong major.

Ask questions, questions, and more questions. That is the essence of maturity, the heart and liver of education. Nothing will more quickly convince the teachers that you are of college calibre. And the tougher your questions, the better. Come to class with queries that dart and flash, that make unexpected sallies into uncharted territory. Ask things which have never been asked before, like "How tall was Nietzsche?" and "Did the Minotaur have ticks? If so, were they immortal?" and "How often did Pitt the Elder shave?"

(Incidentally, you may never know the complete answer to Pitt the Elder's shaving habits, but of one thing you can be positive: no matter how often he shaved and no matter what blades he used, he never enjoyed the shaving comfort that you do. I am assuming, of course, that you use Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, a logical assumption to make when one is addressing college men—which is to say men of perspicacity, discrimination, wit, taste, cognizance, and shrewdness—for Personna is a blade to please the perspicacious, delight the discriminating, win the witty, tickle the tasteful, coddle the cognizer, and shave the shrewd.

(I bring up Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades because the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades pay me to write this column, and they are inclined to sulk if I omit to mention their product. I would not like to see them unhappy, the makers of Personna, for they are fine ruddy men, fond of morris dancing and home brewed root beer, and they make a blade that shaves closely and cleanly, nicklessly and hacklessly, and is sharp and gleaming and durable and available both in double-edge style and Injector style.

(And from these same bounteous blademakers comes Burma-Shave, regular or menthol, a lather that outlathers other lathers, brother. So if you'd rather lather better, and soak your whiskers wetter, Burma-Shave's your answer.)

But I digress. We have now solved the problem of maturity. In subsequent columns we'll take up other issues, equally burning. Since 1953 when this column first started running in your campus paper, we've tackled such thorny questions as "Can a student of 19 find happiness with an economics professor of 90?" and "Should capital punishment for pledges be abolished?" and "Are room-mates sanitary?" Be assured that in this, our 14th year, we will not be less bold.
